New Remedy For BALDNESS

A Flagstaff pharmacist is credited with having discovered the following remedy for baldness. Bathe the bald area in a strong salt solution. The hair gets thirsty and creeps out for a drink. Keep perfectly quiet, as the hair is very bashful and also easily frightened. As soon as it is out far enough, it is quickly grasped by an attendant who has been in hiding behind a nearby screen, and tied into a knot so that it cannot get back. Repeat this daily until it becomes accustomed to you and its new surroundings, by leading it around gently. It will no doubt show a disposition to remain out. If this does not bring the hair out, get married and then the hair will come out at once and stay out.

Since the discovery of the above remedy we have found a preparation called HIRSUTONE which will prevent dandruff and keep the hair from falling out—2 sizes, 50c, $1
